Dear Frank:

In reply to your letter of 21 June, I can assure you that the date of 11 October is satisfactory and about a week prior to that time, I shall let General Brice know the exact date of arrival, departure, etc.

The subject, of course, will be the Central Intelligence Agency, its organization, and its position in the government structure.

I hope your new job is one entirely to your liking and with very best personal regards, I am,

Sincerely,

21 June 1949

Dear Hilly:

Thank you for your letter of 6 June 1949, with the suggested dates for your talk to the Aviation Intelligence officers.

It is sincerely hoped that you can make this talk yourself, but in the event you are away, whomever you may designate will be most welcome.

We suggest 11 October 1949, at 1030, for your talk providing that would be a convenient time for you. If you will let us know for sure about this time and also the subject of your talk, it will be most appreciated.

As I am being detached from this command in the very near future, I will not be on hand to hear you talk, but am sure Brigadier General Brice, my successor, will be most grateful for your coming here.

With warm personal regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

/s/ Frank
